Jamie Broder, RBC Olympian

Hailing from Victoria, Jamie is one of Canada's top beach volleyball players. Growing up, Jamie was a multi-sport athlete before she decided to focus on indoor volleyball while completing her Bachelor of Commerce degree at the University of British Columbia. During her time at UBC she captained the team to their first CIS Championship in over 30 years. After her collegiate success, she shifted her focus to beach volleyball. Since 2011 she's been training full-time with the Canadian National Team and recently made history in 2015 after winning the first ever Gold medal for the Canadian Women's beach volleyball program in Fuzhou, China. Building on that success, Jamie made her Olympic debut at the 2016 Rio Olympic Games where she and her partner advanced to the round of 16 finishing in a stellar 9th place.
