SWISS TAX INFORMATION

Swiss Tax Treatment of the Securities

The following is a summary only of the Issuer's understanding of current law and practice in Switzerland relating to the taxation of the Notes. This summary does not address the tax consequences of an investment in the Notes in any other jurisdiction than Switzerland. Because this summary does not address all tax considerations under Swiss law and does not consider the specific tax situation of an investor, prospective investors are recommended to consult its personal tax advisors as to the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, sale or redemption of the Notes including, in particular, the effect of tax laws of any other jurisdiction.

An investor shall be liable for all current and future taxes and duties resulting from an investment in the Notes.

A) Swiss Income Taxation

Please note that the following income tax treatment is only applicable for private investors with tax residence in Switzerland, holding the Notes as their private assets in a tax perspective.

The Interest rate component of the Interest Amount is subject to income tax on the relevant Payment Date. However, the Option premium component is in principle not subject to income tax.

B) Swiss Withholding Tax

The Notes are not subject to Swiss withholding tax.

C) Swiss Stamp Taxes

For Swiss stamp duty purpose, the Notes are treated as analogous to a foreign bond. Therefore, the issuance (primary market) is not subject to Swiss stamp duty. However, secondary market transactions are in principle subject to Swiss stamp duty (TK 22).

The before mentioned tax treatment applies at the Issue Date. The relevant tax laws and/or the regulation and practice of the tax authorities may change at any time. Please note that this tax information does not replace professional tax advice from a personal tax advisor considering the particular circumstances of a holder or a prospective holder. Therefore, Royal Bank of Canada highly recommends consulting the personal tax advisor as to the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, sale or exercise of these Notes. Royal Bank of Canada hereby expressly excludes any liabilities in respect of any tax implications arising thereof.

Automatic Exchange of Information in Tax Matters

Switzerland has implemented the Automatic Exchange of Information in Tax Matters ("AEOI") as of 1st January 2017 with the EU and various other countries and is negotiating the introduction of the AEOI with further countries. The website "www.sif.admin.ch" provides an overview of all partner states Switzerland has signed an agreement for the introduction of the AEOI.

II. PROFIT AND LOSS

PROFIT AND LOSS

This security falls in the category "yield enhancement".

This means that there is an upper limit to the profit investors may realize. The maximum amount investors may receive over the term of the security is their invested capital, excluding any transaction or other costs, plus interest payments. On the downside, in the event of a barrier breach, investors are exposed to the negative development of the Reference Items. This could lead to a partial or even a total loss of investment.

Please refer to the section "Product Description".

Effect of the performance of the Reference Items on the redemption amount:

Positive performance:

If the Reference Items performs positively, the investor realises no return.

Sideways to slightly negative performance:

If the Reference Items performs sideways to slightly negative, the investor realises no return or a slightly negative return.

Pronounced negative performance:

If the Reference Items performs negatively, the investor realises negative return.

III. SIGNIFICANT RISKS FOR INVESTORS

RISKS

Product Risk

These Securities are capital at risk. This means there is a risk that you could lose your entire investment or part of it. These Securities are not guaranteed against losses by the Issuer, Dealer, their affiliates, the UK Financial Services Compensation Scheme or any equivalent European deposit guarantee scheme.

U.S. Withholding Tax on Dividend Equivalent Payments

The United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, treats a "dividend equivalent" payment as a dividend from sources within the United States. Unless reduced by an applicable tax treaty with the United States, such payments generally would be subject to U.S. withholding tax of 30% if paid to a non-U.S. holder. A non-U.S. holder is a beneficial owner of a Note that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, is a non-resident alien individual, a foreign corporation, or a foreign estate or trust. Under recently finalized U.S. Treasury Department regulations, payments on certain equity-linked instruments (including deemed payments) that are contingent upon or determined by Reference to actual or estimated U.S. source dividends, (regardless of whether such contingency or determination is explicitly stated or implicitly taken into account in computing one or more of the terms of such instruments) may be treated as dividend equivalents subject to withholding tax. Withholding tax will apply to dividend equivalent payments on Notes issued or materially modified on or after January 1, 2017. If any payments are treated as dividend equivalent subject to withholding, we (or the applicable paying agent) would be required to withhold taxes and would not be required to pay any additional amounts with respect to amounts so withheld. Prospective investors of the Notes should consult their own tax advisers regarding the application of the U.S. rules for withholding on dividend equivalents.

Issuer Risk	Investors bear the issuer risk. The Security's value and the payment of any income or bonus amount (where one is payable) are dependent not only on the development of the Reference Item, but also on the creditworthiness of the Issuer, which may vary over the term of the Security. The ratings of the Issuer noted above reflect the independent opinion of the rating agencies as to the safety of payments of principal and interest. These ratings are not a guarantee of credit quality. The ratings do not take into consideration any risk associated with fluctuations in the market value of this Security, or where factors other than the Issuer's credit quality determine the level of principal and interest payments.
Reference Item	The value of the Security is linked to the Reference Item(s). The past performance of the Reference Item(s) is not an indication or guarantee of future performance. Any decision to invest in the Securities should not be based solely or primarily on the past performance of the Reference Item(s). The performance of the Reference Item(s) may be volatile and subject to unpredictable changes over the term of the Security. The investor should be prepared to assume this risk, including the potential risk of insolvency of the Reference Item(s) issuer(s). Fluctuations in price of the Reference Item(s) may result in the investor losing the entire investment or a substantial part of it. An investment in the Securities does not create a direct investment in the underlying Reference Item(s). Where the Reference Item(s) is an equity/basket of equities, the investor will not be eligible to receive dividend payments or any voting rights associated with a direct investment in the Reference Item(s).
FX Risk Quanto	This Security incorporates a Quanto feature because the currencies of the Reference Items are different to the currency of the Securities. This feature means that when calculating the return of the Securities, the performance of the Reference Items in their base currency is not adjusted to account for the exchange rate between the two currencies at such time. You should also be aware that movements in interest rates of both currencies will affect the valuation of a security using this feature. This exposure to currency exchange fluctuations may come at a cost or benefit to you depending on how currency exchange rates move during the term of the Security. Currency exchange rates may be volatile and subject to unpredictable changes over the term of the Security.
Liquidity Risk	The investor should be prepared to hold this Security until maturity should it not be called or terminated early, if such option exists, by the Issuer. The Dealer will, however, use its reasonable endeavours to provide liquidity to the Security (either directly or through an affiliate) but is not obliged to do so and may stop providing liquidity at any time without notice. This means an investor should not rely on having the ability to redeem the Security at a particular time or for a certain price. If the Security is redeemed early, the investor may get back less than the stated redemption amount. The Issue Price is not a direct reflection of the market value of the Security. The level at which the investor purchases the Security includes hedging costs and profits that the Dealer or its affiliates expect to incur or realize. The Issue Price may also include selling commissions paid by the Dealer to distributors and/or intermediaries. Any selling commissions, costs and profits will reduce the secondary market level, if any secondary market develops, for the Security. As a result, the investor may experience an immediate and substantial decline in the value of the Securities on the Issue Date.
Suitability	This termsheet is provided for information purposes only and should not be used as the sole or primary basis of any investment decision. Transactions of a type described herein, may involve a high degree of risk and may not be suitable for all investors. Transactions in the Securities should not be undertaken unless the prospective investor understands and is capable of bearing all of the risks associated with an investment in the Securities. Before entering into any transaction, potential investors should take steps to ensure they understand the transaction and have assessed the appropriateness of the transaction in light of their own objectives and circumstances, including the possible risks, benefits and also the tax implications of entering into this proposed transaction. The information in this termsheet does not constitute financial, tax or legal advice and should not be used as a substitute for seeking professional advice. The Dealer is acting as an arm's length counterparty and not as an advisor or fiduciary. It is strongly recommended that potential investors consult their own professional advisers.

Institutions referencing this termsheet or extracting information from this termsheet to provide to their clients should ensure that the information satisfies their local jurisdictional requirements and applicable securities laws for conducting business, including any applicable suitability and appropriateness assessment. Investments of a type described herein should only be sold to investors that have the necessary knowledge and experience to fully understand the related risks and are able to bear such risks.

Conflicts of Interest Disclosure	RBC Europe Limited ("RBCEL") forms part of a major banking group. It is therefore possible that RBCEL or one of its subsidiaries, or affiliates, or one of their officers, employees, representatives or agents (together "the Bank Group") or another client of the Bank Group may have interests, relationships and/or arrangements that give rise to conflicts of interest in relation to business that is transacted with you. Members of the Bank Group may perform a variety of roles in connection with the issuance. The Issuer, Dealer, or their affiliates may act as the Calculation Agent and may enter into positions in connection with the issuance. The Issuer, Dealer, or their affiliates may undertake hedging activity including trading in the Reference Item(s) or instruments related to the Reference Item(s), which may have an adverse impact on the value of the Securities. The Issuer, Dealer, or their affiliates may from time-to-time possess or have access to information concerning the Reference Item(s) and are under no obligation to disclose this information to investors. Any conflicts of interest will be managed in accordance with the Bank Group's established policies and procedures.
Tax Risk	An investment in the Securities may give rise to tax consequences. Any tax liability is dependent on the taxpayer's personal circumstances. The basis and level of any taxes may change during the term of the Security.
On-sale of Securities	It is strongly recommended that investors seek independent tax advice prior to an investment in the Securities. The Issuer, Dealer and members of the Bank Group do not provide tax advice. To the extent that any general information is provided with regard to tax, this is for information purposes only and should neither be construed as tax advice nor should it be relied on, or treated as a substitute for seeking independent tax advice.

EEA Retail Investor Offering Information	The Base Prospectus (as contemplated by the Final Terms of the Notes) has been prepared on the basis that any offer of Notes in any Member State of the European Economic Area ("EEA") which has implemented Regulation (EU) 2017/1129 (the "Prospectus Regulation") will be made pursuant to an exemption under the Prospectus Regulation, as implemented in the Relevant State, from the requirement to publish a prospectus for offers of Notes. Accordingly, the Notes should not be sold or offered, directly or indirectly, to persons in any Relevant State except in circumstances which would not require the publication of a prospectus and any person making or intending to make an offer in that Relevant State of Notes should only do so in circumstances in which no obligation arises for the Issuer or RBC Europe Limited to publish a prospectus pursuant to Article 3 of the Prospectus Regulation or supplement a prospectus pursuant to Article 23 of the Prospectus Regulation in relation to such offer. No recipient of this termsheet is authorized by any person to act in a way which would result in an offer to it being considered to be a placement through an intermediary for the purposes of the Prospectus Regulation.

INDEX DISCLAIMER

Nikkei 225

INFORMATION RELATING TO THE NIKKEI 225 INDEX

Unless otherwise stated, all information herein relating to Nikkei 225 has been derived from publicly available sources. Such information reflects the policies of Nikkei as of the date hereof as stated in such sources; such policies are subject to change at the discretion of Nikkei.

Nikkei 225 is a stock index calculated, published and disseminated by the Sponsor on behalf of Nikkei that measures the composite price performance of selected Japanese stocks. Nikkei 225 is currently based on 225 underlying stocks listed in the First Section on Tokyo Stock Exchange ("TSE") representing a broad cross-section of Japanese industries. Stocks listed in the First Section are among the most actively traded stocks on the TSE.

While Nikkei and the Sponsor currently employ the following methodology to calculate Nikkei 225, no assurance can be given that Nikkei will not modify or change such methodology in a manner that may affect any amount payable in respect of the Instruments.

Nikkei 225 is a modified, price-weighted index (i.e., an underlying stock's weight in the index is based on its price per share rather than the total market capitalisation of the issuer) which is calculated by (i) multiplying the per share price of each underlying stock by the corresponding multiplier for such underlying stock (a "Multiplier"), (ii) calculating the sum of all these products and (iii) dividing such sum by a divisor (the "Divisor"). The Divisor, initially set in 1949 at 225, was 24.975 as of 15 July 2013 and is subject to adjustments as set forth below. Each Multiplier is computed by dividing yen 50 by the presumed par value of the relevant underlying stock determined by Nikkei, so that the share price of each underlying stock when multiplied by its Multiplier corresponds to a share price based on a uniform presumed par value of yen 50. The par value stock system was abolished with effect as of 1 October 2001. The current presumed par value of each underlying stock is based on its par value immediately before the abolition of the par value of Japanese stock as of 1 October 2001, subject to subsequent adjustment as set forth below. The stock prices used in the calculation of Nikkei 225 are those reported by the TSE. The level of Nikkei 225 is calculated once per minute during TSE trading hours.

In order to maintain continuity in the level of Nikkei 225 in the event of certain changes due to non-market factors affecting the underlying stocks, such as the addition or deletion of underlying stocks, substitution of stocks or stock splits, the Divisor or, as the case may be, the presumed par value of the relevant underlying stock used in calculating Nikkei 225 is adjusted in order that the level of Nikkei 225 is not altered in an uncoordinated way and thereby lacks continuity. Thereafter, the Divisor remains at the new value until a further adjustment is necessary as the result of another change. As a result of such change affecting any underlying stock, the Divisor is adjusted in such a way that the sum of all share prices immediately after such change multiplied by the applicable Multiplier and divided by the new Divisor (i.e., the level of Nikkei 225 immediately after such change) will equal the level of Nikkei 225 immediately prior to the change.

Underlying stocks may be deleted or added by Nikkei. The composition of underlying stocks is, in general, reconsidered once a year, on the first business day of October, pursuant to the periodic reconsideration standard set up by Nikkei. There is no upper limit to the number of stocks to be replaced under the periodic reconsideration. Further, other than the periodic reconsideration, any stock becoming ineligible for listing in the First Section of the TSE due to any of the following reasons will be deleted from the underlying stocks: (i) delisting or transfer to "Seiri-Post" because of bankruptcy (such as filing an application for the application of the company reorganisation law or civil rehabilitation law, or company liquidation, etc.), (ii) delisting because of corporate restructuring such as merger into another company, stock-transfer or stock-for-stock exchange (iii) delisting or transfer to the "Seiri-Post" because of excess debt or any other reason or (iv) transfer to the Second Section. Any underlying stock which is transferred to the "Kanri-Post" because of the high likelihood that it will become delisted or because it is undergoing an inspection of the application for delisting is in principle a candidate for deletion; however, the actual deletion of such stock will be decided after taking into account the possibility of continuance of business of the issuer or the likelihood of delisting, etc. Upon deletion of a stock from the underlying stocks, Nikkei will select a suitable replacement for such deleted underlying stock in accordance with certain criteria. As a general rule, in each case, the number of stocks to be deleted from and the number of replacement stocks to be added to the underlying stocks shall be the same and such replacement will be made on the same day to maintain the number of the underlying stocks at 225. However, under special circumstances Nikkei 225 may be calculated with less than 225 underlying stocks for a limited period of time between the deletion of a stock and the addition of a replacement stock. During this period the continuity in the index value of Nikkei 225 will be maintained by adjusting the Divisor each time upon addition, deletion or substitution of the underlying stock(s).

INFORMATION RELATING TO STANDARD & POOR'S 500 INDEX

All disclosure contained herein regarding the S&P 500 Index (the "S&P Index"), including, without limitation, its make-up, method of calculation and changes in its component, is derived from publicly available information prepared by Standard & Poor's ("S&P"). The Issuer does not take any responsibility for the accuracy or completeness of such information.

Calculation of the S&P Index

The S&P Index is published by S&P and is intended to provide an indication of the pattern of common stock price movement of the stocks included in the S&P Index. The calculation of the value of the S&P Index (discussed below in further detail) is based on the relative value of the aggregate market value ("Market Value") of the common stocks of 500 companies as of a particular time as compared to the aggregate average Market Value of the common stocks of 500 similar companies during the base period of the years 1941 through 1943.

As of 29th April, 1994, the 500 companies included in the S&P Index represented approximately 74% of the aggregate Market Value of common stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange; however, the 500 companies are not the 500 largest companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange and not all 500 companies are listed on such exchange. S&P chooses companies for inclusion in the S&P Index with the aim of achieving a distribution by broad industry groupings that approximates the distribution of these groupings in the common stock population of the New York Stock Exchange, which S&P uses as an assumed model for the composition of the total market. Relevant criteria employed by S&P include the viability of the particular company, the extent to which the company represents the industry group to which it is assigned, the extent to which the market price of the company's common stock is generally responsive to changes in the affairs of the respective industry and the Market Value and trading activity of the common stock of that company. S&P may from time to time, in its sole discretion, add companies, to, or delete companies from, the S&P Index to achieve the objectives stated above.

The S&P Index is a weighted arithmetic index. This means that a change in the price of any stock is weighted by the total market capitalisation of the company rather than its price per stock.

Stock prices are taken from the New York Stock Exchange and the S&P Index is currently updated each minute of the day, from 9:30a.m. to 4:30p.m. (New York time), in order to provide accurate information on a continuous real time basis. The level of the S&P Index appears, inter alia, on Bloomberg Ticker SPX Index.

You are about to purchase a product that is not simple and may be difficult to understand.

1. What is this product?

Type Canadian law governed notes

Objectives

(Terms that appear in bold in this section are described in more detail in the table(s) below.)

The product is designed to provide a return in the form of (1) regular fixed interest payments and (2) a cash payment on termination of the product. The timing and amount of this payment will depend on the performance of the underlyings. The product has a fixed term and will terminate on the maturity date, unless terminated early. The payment at maturity will not exceed USD 1,000.00. If, at any time during the barrier observation period, any of the underlyings has fallen below its barrier level, the product may return less than the product notional amount or even zero.

Early termination following an autocall: The product will terminate prior to the maturity date if, on any autocall observation date, the reference level of the worst performing underlying is at or above its autocall barrier level. On any such early termination, you will on the immediately following autocall payment date receive, in addition to a final interest payment, a cash payment equal to the autocall payment of USD 1,000.00. No interest payments will be made on any date after such autocall payment date. The relevant dates are shown in the table(s) below.

Autocall observation dates	Autocall payment dates
20 April 2023	27 April 2023
20 July 2023	27 July 2023
20 October 2023	27 October 2023
22 January 2024	29 January 2024
22 April 2024	Maturity date

Interest: If the product has not terminated early, on each interest payment date you will receive an interest payment of USD 30.875. The interest payments are not linked to the performance of the underlyings. The relevant dates are shown in the table(s) below.

Interest payment dates
27 January 2023
27 April 2023
27 July 2023
27 October 2023
29 January 2024
Maturity date

Termination on the maturity date: If the product has not terminated early, on the maturity date you will receive:

- if a barrier event has not occurred, a cash payment equal to USD 1,000; or
- if the final reference level of the worst performing underlying is at or above its strike level and a barrier event has occurred, a cash payment equal to USD 1,000; or
- if the final reference level of the worst performing underlying is below its strike level and a barrier event has occurred, a cash payment directly linked to the performance of the worst performing underlying. The cash payment will equal (i) the product notional amount multiplied by (ii) (A) the final reference level of the worst performing underlying divided by (B) its strike level.

Under the product terms, certain dates specified above and below will be adjusted if the respective date is either not a business day or not a trading day (as applicable). Any adjustments may affect the return, if any, you receive.

The product terms also provide that if certain exceptional events occur (1) adjustments may be made to the product and/or (2) the product issuer may terminate the product early. These events are specified in the product terms and principally relate to the underlyings, the product and the product issuer. The return (if any) you receive on such early termination is likely to be different from the scenarios described above and may be less than the amount you invested.

1. they have basic knowledge and/or experience of investing in similar products which provide a similar market exposure and have the ability to understand the product and its possible risks and rewards, either independently or through professional advice;
2. they seek income, expect the movement in the underlyings to perform in a way that generates a favourable return, have an investment horizon of the recommended holding period specified below and understand that the product may terminate early;
3. they accept the risk that the issuer could fail to pay or perform its obligations under the product and they are able to bear a total loss of their investment; and
4. they are willing to accept a level of risk to achieve potential returns that is consistent with the summary risk indicator shown below.

2. What are the risks and what could I get in return?

Risk indicator

← Lower risk Higher risk →

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 1 year and 6 months. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. You may not be able to sell your product easily or may have to sell at a price that significantly impacts on how much you get back.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you.

We have classified this product as 4 out of 7, which is a medium risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium level, and poor market conditions are very unlikely to impact our capacity to pay you.

To the extent the currency of the country in which you purchase this product or your account currency differs from the product currency, please be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above.

This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.

If we are not able to pay you what is owed, you could lose your entire investment.

For detailed information about all risks relating to the product please refer to the risk sections of the prospectus and any supplements thereto as specified in the section "7. Other relevant information" below.

Performance scenarios Market developments in the future cannot be accurately predicted. The scenarios shown are only an indication of some of the possible outcomes based on recent returns. Actual returns could be lower.

Investment: USD 10,000

Scenarios		1 year	1 year and 6 months (Recommended holding period)
Stress scenario	What you might get back after costs	USD 6,196.43	USD 6,455.55
	Average return each year	-38.04%	-25.18%
Unfavourable scenario	What you might get back after costs	USD 9,522.98	USD 8,115.83
	Average return each year	-4.77%	-12.93%
Moderate scenario	What you might get back after costs	USD 11,104.98	USD 11,852.50
	Average return each year	11.05%	11.93%
Favourable scenario	What you might get back after costs	USD 11,351.83	USD 11,852.50
	Average return each year	13.52%	11.93%

This table shows the money you could get back over the next year and 6 months under different scenarios, assuming that you invest USD 10,000.

The scenarios shown illustrate how your investment could perform. You can compare them with the scenarios of other products. The scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on evidence from the past on how the value of this investment varies, and are not an exact indicator. What you get will vary depending on how the market performs and how long you keep the product. The stress scenario shows what you might get back in extreme market circumstances, and it does not take into account the situation where we are not able to pay you. In addition, you should note that the results shown for the intermediate holding period do not reflect estimates of the product's future value. You should therefore not base your investment decision on the results shown for this interim holding period.

The figures shown include all the costs of the product itself, but may not include all the costs that you pay to your advisor or distributor. The figures do not take into account your personal tax situation, which may also affect how much you get back.

3. What happens if the issuer is unable to pay out?

You are exposed to the risk that the issuer might be unable to meet its obligations in connection with the product for instance in the event of bankruptcy or an official directive for resolution action. This may materially adversely affect the value of the product and could lead to you losing some or all of your investment in the product. The product is not a deposit and as such is not covered by any deposit protection scheme.

4. What are the costs?

The Reduction in Yield (RIY) shows what impact the total costs you pay will have on the investment return you might get. The total costs take into account one-off, ongoing and incidental costs.

The amounts shown here are the cumulative costs of the product itself, for two different holding periods. They include potential early exit penalties. The figures assume you invest USD 10,000. The figures are estimates and may change in the future.

Costs over time

Investment: USD 10,000
Scenarios	If you cash in after 1 year	If you cash in at the end of the recommended holding period
Total costs	USD 235.00	USD 185.00
Impact on return (RIY) per year	2.60%	1.39%

The "Total costs" in the table above represents in monetary terms the aggregated amount of costs associated with the investment, assuming the product performs in line with the moderate performance scenario. The "Impact on return" represents how much the expected costs of the product would affect your return in such scenario. Disregarding the impact on your return in that scenario or any early termination event, the estimated entry and exit costs as a percentage of the product notional amount are estimated to be 2.35% if you cash in after 1 year and 1.85% if you cash in at the end of the recommended holding period.

The person selling you or advising you about this product may charge you other costs. If so, this person will provide you with information about these costs, and show you the impact that all costs will have on your investment over time.

Composition of costs

The table below shows:

- The impact each year of the different types of costs on the investment return you might get at the end of the recommended holding period.
- The meaning of the different cost categories.

The table shows the impact on return per year.

One-off costs	Entry costs	1.39%	The impact of the costs already included in the price.
	Exit costs	0.00%	The impact of the costs of exiting your investment when it matures.

The costs shown in the table above represent the split of the reduction in yield shown in the costs over time table at the end of the recommended holding period. The split of the actual estimated costs of the product as a percentage of the product notional amount is estimated to be as follows: entry costs: 1.85% and exit costs: 0.00%.

5. How long should I hold it and can I take money out early?

No fees or penalties will be charged by the issuer for any such transaction, however an execution fee might be chargeable by your broker if applicable. By selling the product before its maturity, you may receive back less than you would have received if you had kept the product until maturity.

(x) Intended to be held in a manner which would allow Eurosystem eligibility:

No

Whilst the designation is specified as "no" at the date of these Final Terms, should the Eurosystem eligibility criteria be amended in the future such that the Notes are capable of meeting them the Notes may then be deposited with one of the ICSDs as common safe-keeper. Note that this does not necessarily mean that the Notes will then be recognised as eligible collateral for Eurosystem monetary policy and intra day credit operations by the Eurosystem at any time during their life. Such recognition will depend upon the ECB being satisfied that Eurosystem eligibility criteria have been met.

What are the key risks that are specific to the Issuer?

Business and Economic Conditions: The Issuer's financial results may be affected to varying degrees by the general business and economic conditions in the geographic regions in which the Issuer operates. These conditions may include factors such as consumer saving and spending habits as well as consumer borrowing and repayment patterns, unemployment rates, the impact of containment measures associated with the COVID-19 pandemic or other health crises on businesses' operations, the level of business investment and overall business sentiment, the level of activity and volatility of the financial markets, inflation, the level of government spending, monetary policies that are adopted by the BoC, the Federal Reserve in the U.S., the European Central Bank in the European Union and monetary authorities in other jurisdictions in which the Issuer operates, and the fiscal policies of the governments of Canada, the U.S., Europe and such other jurisdictions. Such policies can also adversely affect the Issuer's clients and counterparties in Canada, the U.S. and internationally, which may increase the risk of default by such clients and counterparties. For example, economic downturns may result in higher unemployment rates and lower household incomes, lower corporate earnings, changes in business investment and consumer spending, and could adversely affect the Issuer's business, including but not limited to the demand for its loan and other products and result in lower earnings, including higher credit losses. The Issuer's financial results are also sensitive to changes in interest rates and to weaker investor confidence and market conditions, which may lead to lower client activity and unfavourable changes in earnings. Additional risks are emerging around how countries will seek to recoup the unprecedented levels of stimulus measures introduced in response to the COVID-19 pandemic and balance budgets in the future, and around the potential implications that a prolonged low interest rate environment will have, for example, on increasing wealth inequality and extended retirement ages, among others.

Information Technology and Cyber Risks: Information technology (IT) and cyber risks remain top risks, not only for the financial services sector, but for other industries worldwide. Cybersecurity is the risk to the business associated with cyber-attacks initiated to disrupt or disable the Issuer's operations or to expose or damage data. The Issuer continues to be subject to heightened risks in the form of cyberattacks, data breaches, cyber extortion and similar compromises, due to: (i) the size, scale, and global nature of the Issuer's operations; (ii) the Issuer's heavy reliance on the internet to conduct day-to-day business activities; (iii) the Issuer's intricate technological infrastructure; and (iv) the Issuer's use of third-party service providers. Additionally, clients' use of personal devices can create further avenues for potential cyber-related incidents, as the Issuer has little or no control over the safety of these devices. IT and cyber risks have increased during the COVID-19 pandemic, as increased malicious activities are creating more threats for cyberattacks including COVID-19 phishing emails, malware-embedded mobile apps that purport to track infection rates, and targeting of vulnerabilities in remote access platforms as many companies continue to operate with work from home arrangements. Resulting implications could include business interruptions, service disruptions, financial loss, theft of intellectual property and confidential information, litigation, enhanced regulatory attention and penalties, as well as reputational damage. Furthermore, the adoption of emerging technologies, such as cloud computing, AI and robotics, call for continued focus and investment to manage risks effectively. Not managing this risk effectively may have an adverse effect on the Issuer's financial performance and condition.

Privacy, Data and Third Party Related Risks: The collection, use and sharing of data, as well as the management and governance of data, are increasingly important as the Issuer continues to invest in digital solutions and innovation, as well as, expanding its business activities. Data management is the risk of failing to manage information appropriately throughout its lifecycle due to inadequate processes and controls, resulting in legal or regulatory consequences, reputational damage or financial loss. In addition to the management and governance of data, its collection, use, and sharing also remain a top risk given the high value attributed to the Issuer's data. Resulting implications from failing to manage this risk could include financial loss, theft of intellectual property and confidential information, litigation, enhanced regulatory attention and penalties, as well as reputational damage. Privacy risk is the risk of improper creation or collection, use, disclosure, retention or destruction of information. Effective privacy and information management practices continue to grow in importance, as demonstrated by the continued development of complex regulations in the jurisdictions in which the Issuer operates and recent regulatory developments relating to data privacy. The Chief Privacy Office and the Chief Data Office partner with cross-functional teams to develop and implement enterprise-wide standards and practices that describe how data is used, protected, managed and governed. The Issuer's potential exposure to these risks also increases as the Issuer continues to partner with third-party service providers and adopt new technologies (e.g., cloud computing, AI and machine learning, etc.) and business models. Third-party risk is the risk of failure to effectively manage third parties which may expose the Issuer to service disruptions, regulatory action, financial loss, litigation or reputational damage. Privacy, data and third-party related risks have been heightened as the use of work from home arrangements have become common practice. As the majority of the Issuer's employees continue to work from home, it is continuously monitoring and enforcing best practices as it seeks to maintain the privacy and confidentiality of all sensitive information. The Issuer's security awareness program is required to be completed by each employee annually and includes cyber awareness training on managing risks while working remotely. Third-party providers critical to its operations are being monitored for any impact on their ability to deliver services, including vendors of its third-party providers. Failure to properly onboard and manage service providers may expose the Issuer to service disruption, financial loss and other risks that may negatively impact its financial performance and condition.

Regulatory Changes: The ongoing introduction of new or revised regulations will continue to lead to increasing focus across the organization on meeting additional regulatory requirements across the multiple jurisdictions in which the Issuer operates. See "Business segment results" on pages 26 to 48 of the 2020 MD&A incorporated by reference in the Base Prospectus for information on the Issuer's business segments and the jurisdictions in which they operate. Financial and other reforms that have come into effect or are coming into effect, across multiple jurisdictions, such as Canadian anti-money laundering regulations, the interest rate benchmark reform, as well as data, privacy, consumer protection regulations, Canadian benchmark rate for qualifying insured mortgages and client focused reforms, continue to provide challenges and impact the Issuer's operations and strategies and may negatively impact its financial performance, condition and prospects.

Digital Disruption and Innovation: The COVID-19 pandemic has changed the way consumers interact with financial services providers. Demand for digital banking services has increased, and while this represents an opportunity for the Issuer to leverage its technological advantage, the need to meet the rapidly evolving needs of clients and compete with non-traditional competitors has increased the Issuer's strategic and reputational risks. Additional risks also continue to emerge as demographic trends, evolving client expectations, the increased power to analyze data and the emergence of disruptors are creating competitive pressures across a number of sectors. Moreover, established technology companies, newer competitors, and regulatory changes continue to foster new business models that could challenge traditional banks and financial products. Finally, while the adoption of new technologies, such as AI and machine learning, presents opportunities for the Issuer, it could result in new and complex strategic, reputational, operational, regulatory and compliance risks that would need to be managed effectively and, if not, may adversely impact its financial performance and condition.

Where will the securities be traded?

The Notes are not intended to be admitted to trading on any market.

What are the key risks that are specific to the securities?

Risks associated with the Notes include the following:

Modification and waivers: holders of the Notes are exposed to the risk that their rights in respect of the Notes are varied against their will, which may result in an investment in any Notes becoming less advantageous to a particular holder depending on individual circumstances.

Secondary market: an active secondary market in respect of the Notes may never be established or may be illiquid and this would adversely affect the value at which an investor could sell its Notes.

Exchange rate risk: if an investor holds Notes which are not denominated in the investor’s home currency, the investor will be exposed to movements in exchange rate adversely affecting the value of the holding of Notes. Also the imposition of exchange controls or certain other specified events in relation to the Notes could result in an investor not receiving payment on the Notes.

Credit ratings: Credit ratings assigned to the Issuer or the Notes might not reflect all the risks associated with an investment in the Notes.

The Notes do not benefit from a protection amount: on the maturity date the amount payable in respect of the Notes may be less than the initial investment amount and purchasers of the Notes are exposed to full loss of their investment due to the lack of protection amount.

Cap on return: the maximum possible return on the Notes will be limited to principal amount of the Notes and the return will not increase even if the Reference Item outperforms the stated maximum return.

Market disruptions: the Calculation Agent may determine that a market disruption event or other adjustment event has occurred which may have an adverse effect on the value of or payment received with respect to the Notes and/or may delay applicable payments or settlement.

Risks relating to Index Linked Notes: the value of the Reference Item on any day will reflect the value of its constituents on such day. Changes in the composition of the Reference Item and factors which either affect or may affect the value of the constituents, will affect the value of the Reference Item and therefore may adversely affect the return on an investment in the Index Linked Notes.

Additional disruption events: if any of Change in Law, Hedging Disruption or Increased Cost of Hedging occur, the Notes will be subject to adjustment or may be redeemed early. The amount due on such redemption may be substantially less than an investor’s investment and may in certain circumstances be zero.
