Caution regarding forward-looking statements

From time to time, we make written or oral forward-looking statements within the meaning of certain securities laws, including the “safe harbour” provisions of the United States Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 and any applicable Canadian securities legislation. We may make forward-looking statements in this report, in filings with Canadian regulators or the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, in reports to shareholders and in other communications. Forward-looking statements in this report include, but are not limited to, statements relating to diversity and inclusion (“D&I”), including in connection with economies and communities in which RBC and our clients operate, our strategies to identify, mitigate and adapt to D&I-related risks, our approach to identifying and managing D&I opportunities, and our D&I-related goals and metrics. The forward-looking information contained in this Report is presented for the purpose of assisting our stakeholders in understanding the ways we intend to address D&I-related risks and opportunities, and may not be appropriate for other purposes. Forward-looking statements are typically identified by words such as “believe”, “expect”, “foresee”, “forecast”, “anticipate”, “predict”, “intend”, “estimate”, “objective”, “goal”, “plan”, “strive”, “target” and “project” and similar expressions of future or conditional verbs such as “will”, “may”, “should”, “could” or “would”.

By their very nature, forward-looking statements require us to make assumptions and are subject to inherent risks and uncertainties, which give rise to the possibility that our predictions, forecasts, projections, expectations or conclusions will not prove to be accurate, that our assumptions may not be correct, and that our strategies to mitigate and adapt to D&I-related risks and opportunities will not be achieved. We caution readers not to place undue reliance on these statements as a number of risk factors could cause our actual results to differ materially from the expectations expressed in such forward-looking statements.

These factors – many of which are beyond our control and the effects of which can be difficult to predict – include the following: our ability to gather and verify data regarding diversity and inclusion, our ability to successfully implement various initiatives throughout the company under expected time frames, the compliance of various third parties with our policies and procedures, the legal and regulatory environment, regulatory compliance

(which could lead us to being subject to various legal and regulatory proceedings, the potential outcome of which could include regulatory restrictions, penalties and fines), strategic, reputation and other risks discussed in the risk sections and Impact of COVID-19 pandemic section of our Annual Report for the year ended October 31, 2021 (2021 Annual Report) and the Risk management section of our Quarterly Report for the three-month period ended January 31, 2022 (Q1 2022 Report to Shareholders).

We caution that the foregoing list of risk factors is not exhaustive and other factors could also adversely affect our results. When relying on our forward-looking statements to make decisions with respect to us, investors and others should carefully consider the foregoing factors and other uncertainties and potential events.

Except as required by law, we do not undertake to update any forward-looking statement, whether written or oral, that may be made from time to time by us or on our behalf. While certain matters discussed in this report may be significant, any significance should not be read as necessarily rising to the level of materiality used for the purposes of complying with securities laws and regulations, even if we use the word “material”.

Additional information about these and other factors can be found in the risk sections and Impact of COVID-19 pandemic section of our 2021 Annual Report and in the Risk management section of our Q1 2022 Report to Shareholders.

About this Report

This Report reflects RBC's Value of Accountability and commitment to relevant disclosure on topics that matter to our stakeholders, including colleagues, clients, communities and shareholders. Along with measuring and reporting transparently on diversity and inclusion progress, we use data-driven insights to create programs that drive inclusion, increase a sense of belonging and deliver on our goals.

Scope

The RBC Diversity & Inclusion Report 2021 (the "Report") includes information about Royal Bank of Canada ("RBC", "we", "our" or "us") and its operations globally, except where the context indicates that "RBC", "we", "our" or "us" refers to a particular subsidiary.

This Report sets out a comprehensive view of our diversity and inclusion ("D&I") priorities, programs and performance, reflecting the importance of improving diversity and inclusion in areas such as age, gender, ethnicity, national origin, sexual orientation, persons with disabilities, Indigenous people, gender expression/identity, education and religion. The Report provides global information as well as regional insights, as we recognize that individual regions may have different priorities in driving equitable opportunities for groups that are historically underrepresented<sup>1</sup>.

Supplementary information on policies, procedures and programs is available at rbc.com/community-social-impact and rbc.com/diversity-inclusion.

Terminology

We may at times use different terminology to describe demographic groups. For example, throughout this Report you will see the term BIPOC, which stands for Black, Indigenous and People of Colour. This term recognizes the unique histories of racism Black and Indigenous people have lived through. While the term BIPOC originated in the United States, its meaning has significance worldwide. The term BIPOC is not intended to be a catch-all as RBC recognizes that not all racialized people experience racism in the same way, as evidenced by the rise in anti-Asian racism during the pandemic.

Data limitations

Due to differences in regional regulations on the disclosure and collection of race/ethnicity identifiers, data on representation are predominantly limited to operations in Canada, the US, the UK and Channel Islands, and Europe. Limitations on the disclosure and collection of this data in the Caribbean and Asia Pacific prevent detailed reporting on employee representation in these regions.

Reporting period

All data and other statements contained in this Report are current as of the 2021 fiscal year (November 1, 2020 to October 31, 2021), unless otherwise noted. In many cases, we have provided data for fiscal 2021 as well as the two preceding years to provide a view of trends and progression in our performance. Our Statement of Performance is available in Appendix 1.

Currency and measurement

All amounts in this document are in Canadian dollars unless otherwise noted.

Stakeholders

This Report is published for all RBC stakeholders worldwide. Our stakeholders include current and prospective clients, investors, employees, the socially responsible investment research community, suppliers, governments, regulators, non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and community organizations.

Reporting frameworks

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015, provides a shared blueprint for peace and prosperity for people and the planet, now and into the future. This includes a vision to reduce inequality and promote inclusive economic growth – a vision shared by RBC and embedded in our D&I strategy. Our D&I priorities align with four specific Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and 11 targets, which we have illustrated at the beginning of each section in this Report and in Appendix 3.

<sup>1</sup> A group that is historically underrepresented may include those who self-identify as women, Black, Indigenous, People of Colour (BIPOC), LGBTQ+ and/or persons with disabilities.

Accelerating Diversity & Inclusion at RBC

“Our Purpose of helping clients thrive and communities prosper is core to who we are as an organization, and can only be achieved when everyone has the opportunity to achieve their fullest potential. RBC is more committed than ever to accelerating the pace of change.”

Dave McKay
President and Chief Executive Officer

At RBC, Diversity and Inclusion (D&I) is more than a value, it is core to our Purpose and a fundamental strength of our organization. Our D&I vision is to be among the most inclusive workplaces and successful companies, putting diversity into action to help employees, clients and communities thrive. It's also a critical component of our overarching focus on Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) priorities, which are integrated throughout our strategy and operations in order to create meaningful value and harness the power of our Purpose. In practice, bringing RBC's D&I vision to life involves setting bold commitments – informed by meaningful consultation, measuring and disclosing our progress, and ensuring we remain accountable to our stakeholders.

Diversity has been part of RBC's DNA since our foundation, and our D&I journey is an important part of our 150+ year history. The values that underpin our approach to diversity and inclusion are rooted in an important, fundamental belief: our differences make us stronger. Everyone connected to our organization – our colleagues, clients, communities and shareholders – brings a unique set of experiences and perspectives to the table, and we are committed to being an organization that consistently brings these strengths to life through our people, products and ideas.

Our culture of inclusivity is what enables us to attract top talent, drive innovation and growth, and provide meaningful, differentiated value for the clients and communities we serve. We also believe that diversity and inclusion is an engine for innovation and economic prosperity, and as Canada's biggest bank, and a top global financial institution, we are committed to playing a leadership role in accelerating a more inclusive, sustainable and prosperous future.

Together, we've made important progress on our D&I journey and our commitments to be a catalyst for change. In the summer of 2020, we were the first Canadian bank to announce a comprehensive Action Plan Against Systemic Racism, taking direct action to address the impacts of widespread systemic racism in our society. We've also taken important steps to advance D&I across our teams, including implementing mandatory Anti-Racism training for employees. Importantly, we continue to make progress in executive representation, setting the stage for further advancement in the years ahead. Since 2015, executive representation of women has increased from 38% to 44%, and representation of BIPOC executives has increased from 16% to 23%.

The progress we've made against these strategic priorities is a great point of pride for our organization, and RBC has received meaningful, global recognition as a result. In January 2021, RBC was selected as a Catalyst Award winner, an award that recognizes global companies dedicated to increasing the representation of women in leadership and promoting equal access to career opportunities. Additionally, in September 2021, RBC placed #2 in the Refinitiv Diversity & Inclusion Index, a ranking that analyzes over 11,000 listed companies around the world. While we're honoured by this recognition, we also know that the move toward equality and fundamental change in our society has much further to go.

When it comes to advancing RBC's D&I efforts, we recognize this is an ongoing journey that requires a consistent focus and deep commitment. That's why we've implemented a comprehensive D&I strategy, one that outlines targeted actions and delivers specific and measurable value for our colleagues, clients, communities and shareholders. Our strategy is focused on three key pillars:

Strengthening inclusion, with a focus on enhancing inclusive leadership capabilities among our people; fostering a listening environment; leading with empathy; ensuring employees feel safe to speak up for inclusion; and driving accountability.

Advancing diversity, by enhancing our hiring and recruitment programs; driving equitable opportunities for pay, promotion and development; and improving diversity in leadership at all levels, across all segments.

Enabling economic inclusion, which includes influencing equitable access to financial products and services; supporting products, programs and initiatives that create social impact; and leveraging our purchasing power to influence supplier and client diversity efforts.

The 2021 Enterprise Diversity & Inclusion Report helps bring the pillars of our D&I strategy to life, and honours our ongoing commitment to progress and transparency.

Our Purpose of helping clients thrive and communities prosper is core to who we are as an organization, and can only be achieved when everyone has the opportunity to achieve their fullest potential. RBC is more committed than ever to accelerating the pace of change.

Dave McKay
President & Chief Executive Officer, Royal Bank of Canada

D&I governance

Our D&I organizational model reflects our belief that we should embed D&I in every part of our business. RBC's Board of Directors (the Board) is committed to D&I at all levels of the organization. Our Board Diversity Policy sets out the Board's diversity objectives. Every year, the Governance Committee completes a self-assessment against these diversity objectives. It reviews the Board's composition and any anticipated vacancies and assesses each director candidate with a focus on our commitment to a balanced and diverse Board. Please see Appendix 1 for our board diversity representation metrics. The Human Resources Committee plays a key role in overseeing talent strategies and succession planning to ensure we have a diverse talent pool for growth and future leadership. It engages with management on the bank's progress against its diversity goals and the steps taken to advance diverse leadership for women and BIPOC employees and support the bank's vision to be among the most inclusive companies.

This D&I model is governed by our Global Diversity Leadership Council (DLC), which was established in 2001 and has been chaired by the president and CEO ever since. Our Global Diversity & Inclusion Centre of Excellence (CoE) is led by a vice president and supported by the senior vice president of Talent Strategy & Solutions. This CoE establishes strategies to enable RBC's D&I vision, ensures RBC is making measurable progress in achieving its D&I goals and commitments, guides the organization in all matters related to D&I and drives the network of D&I leaders, ambassadors and supporters. The CoE is further supported by, among others, our business units, functions (Finance, Risk, Law, etc.) and their respective DLCs, ERGs as well as all aspects of Human Resources and other functional teams, as seen in the chart on the right.

Our D&I journey

Over a history spanning more than 150 years, one thing hasn't changed at RBC – our strength is and always will be our people. RBC believes D&I is an engine for innovation and economic prosperity. It is the diversity of our people, experiences and ideas that ensure our company's continued growth.

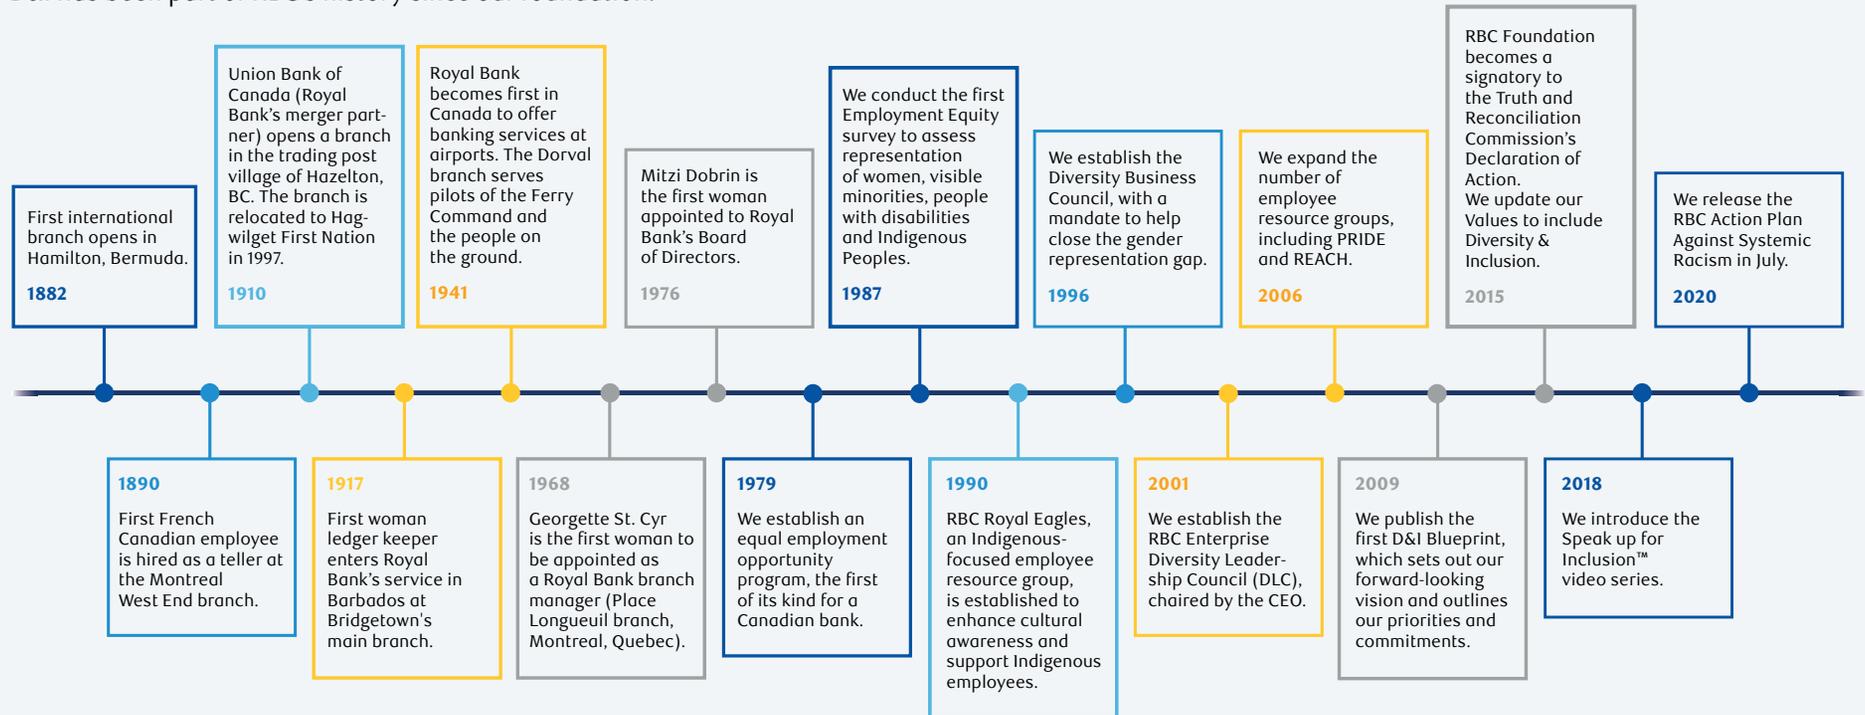

Our D&I vision is to be among the most inclusive and successful companies. By putting diversity into action, we attract, engage and develop strong talent, and bring RBC's Purpose of helping clients thrive and communities prosper to life.

Diversity and Inclusion is core to our culture and helps us bring our purpose to life for our clients, communities and each other. By continuing to deliver on D&I commitments, along with transparently measuring and reporting our progress, we can enable people to reach their full potential and inspire a culture of inclusion across RBC.

Helena Gottschling
Chief Human Resources Officer

D&I has been part of RBC's history since our foundation.

Our strategic priorities

Over the last two years, we reimagined our D&I strategy and engaged in a number of activities to inform the evolution of our strategic priorities, as shown below. We have also analyzed external factors, such as client needs, community and investor interest, regulatory changes and stakeholder information requests, to help inform our strategy and further our efforts.

Socio-political issues around the world have drawn attention to the systemic racism and bias that have disadvantaged Black, Indigenous and People of Colour for far too long. As a global organization, we recognize both our opportunity and responsibility to take action, drive change and create a more inclusive workplace and society.

One of our greatest opportunities has been to listen more profoundly to our employees to gain a better understanding of people’s diverse lived experiences. This exercise in active listening has helped our leaders learn, guide with transparency and reassure their teams. It has also inspired us to reflect on additional actions we can take to bring about greater inclusion in our workplace and our communities.

We also took the opportunity to expand our view of D&I to ensure our policies, programs and actions create specific and measurable value for colleagues, clients, communities and shareholders.

“RBC has long believed being a diverse and inclusive organization is not only the right thing to do but also the smart thing to do. It accelerates our ability to create opportunities and positive change for our colleagues, clients and communities.”

Target 8.5

Target 10.3

For additional information, see Appendix 3.

We recognize that achieving our vision of a diverse workforce won't happen overnight – or by accident. We must intentionally create and maintain inclusive and unbiased hiring practices that are grounded in analytics and research. By using data-driven tools to attract, retain and promote talent, we are better equipped to meet our diversity goals and reflect the client base that we serve.

We also acknowledge the need to provide pay equity and equal opportunity for promotion and development to retain and advance diverse talent and create opportunities for all employees to reach their full potential.

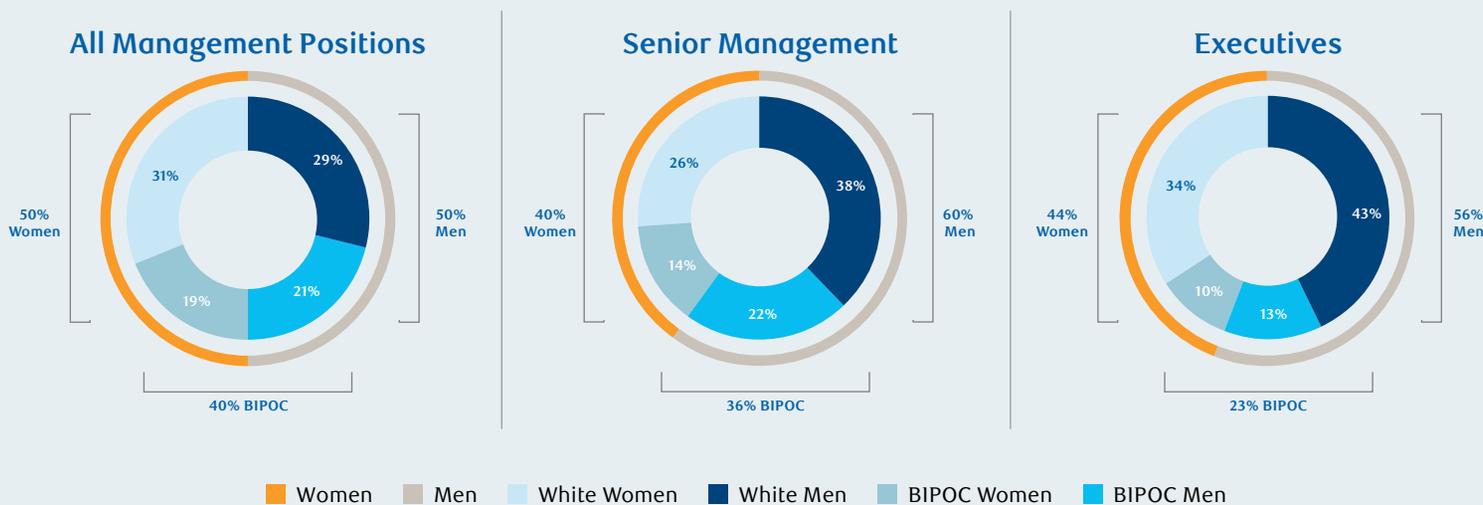

Improving diversity across all levels of leadership begins with building a pipeline of diverse talent. We align our talent strategies and succession planning with our business strategies and Leadership Model and use metrics to ensure we are preparing a diverse talent pool for growth and future leadership roles.

“Investing in a diverse workforce will continue to position RBC for success, thanks to the diversity of thought, ideas and innovation that is naturally derived. We believe diversity and inclusion is an engine for innovation and economic resilience, supporting better workplaces and communities.”

Enhancing hiring and recruitment programs

We believe we can help our clients thrive and communities prosper by establishing a workforce that represents the people we serve. We aim to incorporate diversity at every stage of our staffing process – attracting diverse talent to our organization, establishing hiring and recruiting practices that are free from bias and adhering to metrics that ensure people from groups that are historically underrepresented have access to opportunities.

We are committed to meaningfully improving women and BIPOC executive representation across our businesses. We set representational goals for the organization for each business and function, and establish clear accountabilities to assess gaps and develop holistic strategies to meet goals and sustain progress.

An important pillar of our Action Plan Against Systemic Racism is our goal to invest in the leaders of tomorrow. This plan includes:

- Providing BIPOC youth with 40% of all RBC summer opportunities, with a specific focus on recruiting from Black and Indigenous communities
- Embedding mandatory diversity and inclusion goals in recruiters' performance and goal plans
- Encouraging managers and recruiters to apply inclusive hiring best practices at the job posting, resume screening, interview and offer stages
- Offering the monthly Removing Hiring Bias training to hiring managers and recruiters
- Enhancing inclusive recruitment data analytics to identify gaps and opportunities
- Developing targeted recruitment marketing campaigns and events to support inclusive hiring objectives

We exceeded our fiscal 2021 goal to provide BIPOC youth with 40% of all RBC summer opportunities, with a specific focus on recruiting from Black and Indigenous communities:

	> 10% Black	15% Black	48%

Building a pipeline of diverse talent through education and awareness

Prosper•US

Prosper•US magazine is a custom publication designed to build affinity among existing women financial advisors and attract new women candidates to the business. Using inspirational stories and practical tips for women in the financial services industry, the magazine showcases the strong culture at the firm and demonstrates how women are given tools, resources and support to thrive and advance.

Prosper•US is published twice a year and distributed to select women financial advisors throughout the US.

Partnership building

To advance our BIPOC outreach efforts, we partner with the National Association of Asian American Professionals (NAAAP), Association of African American Advisors (AAAA) and Association of Latino Professionals of America (ALPFA). These partnerships provide opportunities to significantly add to our diverse talent pipelines, shortlists and prospective hires.

A long-term relationship with the National Association of Women Business Owners (NAWBO) engages a network of women entrepreneurs and business owners, providing networking and client opportunities to women financial advisors and increasing our pool of talent for the Associate Financial Advisor Program.

Key outreach and recruitment activities in 2021

- Through our Diversity Works Here® event series, RBC delivered unconscious bias education to more than 1,000 hiring managers to help them conduct better interviews. We expanded our outreach efforts by hosting listening sessions with over 500 students representing the LGBTQ+; Black, Indigenous and People of Colour (BIPOC); newcomer; and persons with disabilities communities to understand barriers and opportunities to better engage and hire.
- With more women controlling wealth than ever before, Your Path is a recruitment campaign aimed at attracting female investment advisors by highlighting the flexibility and autonomy of a career with RBC Dominion Securities®. Using social media channels including Facebook, LinkedIn and Indeed, the campaign featured digital ads and a six-video series of some of our top female advisors speaking about their personal journeys to become investment advisors.
- We continue to develop strong partnerships with external organizations to recruit employees with visible and invisible disabilities. Partners include CCRW, Career Edge, The Bennett Edge, Specialisterne, Spinal Cord Injury Ontario, the Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA), Ready, Willing&Able and Abilocity. We also partner with over 20 on-campus accessibility offices.
- Technology & Operations (T&O) produced the T&O Diversity Campaign to increase awareness of RBC as a tech employer of choice, with a focus on diversity and inclusion among targeted tech talent. In 2021, we saw meaningful increases in the hiring of diverse talent; and of the individuals recruited to T&O's Early Talent Program, 48% were women and 56% were BIPOC. More than half of T&O's partnerships support D&I initiatives.

RBC Capital Markets global campus recruitment diversity initiatives

- UP (Uncovering Prospects) in the City: A profile-raising inter-bank event aimed at students of Black heritage that showcases internal diversity networks of participating organizations and gives attendees the opportunity to network with and ask questions to participating bank representatives.

Driving equitable opportunities for pay, promotion and development

We believe that all employees should have equal opportunity to reach their full potential, with avenues in place to help them earn salaries, commissions or bonuses that reflect their responsibility, contribution and performance. We aim to provide equitable opportunities for development and promotion at RBC. To retain and advance untapped talent, we have established training and development programs for groups that are historically underrepresented, and we involve and encourage leaders to build diverse teams. Our compensation program analyses further support fair pay practices for all employees.

Supporting our commitment to pay equity

RBC is committed to the principles of pay equity for all employees, regardless of their gender or race/ethnicity. We take action to address pay disparities, when identified, across groups of employees performing equal or comparable work. We conduct regular gender- and race-based compensation analyses as part of our compensation review processes and review pay differences, taking into consideration factors such as position level and tenure, specialized skills, business or function, and geography, all of which may contribute to differences in pay.

We measure and manage gender equity and racial equity in pay using a custom business analytics tool, which helps us identify potential differences in pay across groups of employees, adjusting for known variables that impact pay, including observable personal and occupational characteristics such as platform and position level.

In addition, we complete gender pay equity analyses and filings annually, where required, to comply with the Canadian federal Employment Equity Act, provincial and federal Pay Equity legislation, and the UK Gender Pay Gap reporting regulation.

Since there are a number of variables that are considered in establishing pay levels, we periodically carry out statistical analyses to eliminate factors that may explain variations in pay, including levels of proficiency and performance, education, accreditation, and role accountabilities. As a result of these efforts, we have built new tools, repeatable procedures and training activities to increase manager awareness and avoid potential biases that could affect performance evaluations and compensation.

See Appendix 1 for more information on our 2021 adjusted median pay differences (women's remuneration as a percentage of men's remuneration and BIPOC employees' remuneration as a percentage of White<sup>1</sup> employees' remuneration) for federally regulated employees in Canada governed by the Employment Equity Act.

Workplace policies

RBC has a comprehensive set of policies and practices related to employment equity, equal opportunity and anti-discrimination. These include the RBC Code of Conduct, Respectful Workplace Policy, Human Rights Position Statement, RBC Equal Employment Opportunity Policy, RBC Accommodation Policy, Compassionate Leave Policy and RBC Workplace Accessibility Guidelines. We proactively review and update policies to address emerging or evolving issues and regulatory changes. For more information about our policies and programs, please see our About Value for Employees background paper.

Driving equitable opportunities for pay, promotion and development

Equitable promotions and development programs

All employees deserve equal opportunity for promotion, but we know that not everyone has had equal access to networks, mentors and development programs. By creating and enhancing programs for groups that are historically underrepresented, we accelerate paths to promotion and leadership roles for a more diverse group of colleagues.

- Women in Leadership: Women in Leadership is a global, 10-12 month leadership program offered to nominated, high-potential, senior non-executive women. This program helps women enhance their leadership capabilities, build strategic influence and increase networks and exposure to senior leadership. Since its inception in 2013, 221 women have completed<sup>2</sup> the program and 29% have been promoted.<sup>1</sup>
- Ignite Leadership Development Program: Ignite is a 10-12 month leadership program for nominated high-potential BIPOC talent aimed at accelerating their trajectory to senior management. The program helps address common challenges, provides opportunities to develop and practice key leadership behaviours and enables cross-bank networking with peers and senior leaders. It also includes formal coaching by an external executive coach and the opportunity to leverage skills and gain experience by partnering with a charity to solve their biggest business challenges. In 2021, Ignite participants helped four prominent charities solve relevant and timely business challenges, donating over 945 hours over an intensive two weeks. To date, 92 diverse leaders have completed<sup>2</sup> this program and 29% of participants have been promoted.<sup>1</sup>

- Early in Career Women’s Dialogues: To prepare our early-in-career talent for leadership roles, RBC hosted Early in Career Women’s Dialogues, a leader-led interactive workshop with 100 women, featuring authentic and candid stories from executive women at RBC and lessons from top women leaders from around the world. The program focuses on forging a personal path to success, taking ownership of their voice, network and career, and gaining the confidence to step up to lead. Learnings continue through quarterly calls with senior leaders for mentorship and networking.
- Indigenous Peoples Development Program (IPDP): In 2017, we launched the IPDP to recruit recent graduates who self-identify as Indigenous (First Nations, Inuit or Métis) Peoples of Canada. The two-year experiential learning program helps them develop the skills and network they need to build their professional experience, with the opportunity to gain exposure to different aspects of finance, auditing, risk management, technology, marketing, capital markets or human resources. To date, we have hired 40 associates for this program, and in 2022, we are committed to hiring 22 associates. In 2020, 50% of participants were promoted,<sup>1</sup> and 68% were in 2021. This year, IPDP associates gave back to local Indigenous communities by working with nine charitable organizations, contributing a total of 5,740 hours to meaningful projects.

Select members of the 2021 IPDP cohort.

<sup>1</sup> Defined as an upward change in position level or HR class. Excludes summer interns, students and co-ops. Values for women and men represent data from our global operations. Values for BIPOC represent data from our businesses in Canada and the United States.

Improving diversity in leadership at all levels, across all segments

While we have made progress on diversity and inclusion within our global workforce, we recognize there is more to be done. We remain committed to expanding our leadership bench and pipeline with a particular focus on women, BIPOC, persons with disabilities and the LGBTQ+ community.

We align talent management strategies and succession planning with our business strategies and our Leadership Model. In our approach to succession planning, we assess, identify and develop executives and high-potential talent to help them build their leadership capabilities and create a diverse group of leaders who will drive our future performance.

Recognizing that what gets measured gets managed, we set specific, time-bound goals to increase the diversity of our leadership. We've been making progress in increasing the representation of women in executive roles, from 38% in 2015 to 44% in 2021, and BIPOC executives, from 16% in 2015 to 23% in 2021.

Our executive appointment goals are key enablers for continued progress in this area. We enable leaders to support staffing goals in a number of ways, such as building a strong pipeline to support diverse candidate slates and establishing programs to develop the skills, capabilities and experiences of our diverse talent across RBC.

Listening to our employees

Leading with empathy and creating safe spaces

Driving accountability

Alignment with the SDGs

For additional information, see Appendix 3.

To achieve a diverse and inclusive workplace, we must be able to speak openly and honestly about topics such as bias, discrimination, racism, disability and inequality. Yet we recognize these can be uncomfortable conversations to have. People may be afraid of saying the wrong thing, inadvertently offending a colleague or mispronouncing a name. Once we recognize that we are all in this D&I journey together, we can have uncomfortable conversations and put the hard issues on the table, create opportunities for acceptance and build an inclusive culture for all employees.

We want all employees to feel safe speaking up – not just for themselves but for others too. In doing so, we can create an environment in which everyone experiences a sense of belonging, safety and inclusion.

“To achieve a truly inclusive culture in the workplace, we must create a sense of belonging and an environment where employees feel safe to speak up at all times. We have made significant progress, but we aren’t done yet. I look forward to building on this momentum, having the hard conversations and driving a truly inclusive culture at RBC.”

Strengthening inclusive-leadership capabilities

To strengthen inclusive-leadership capabilities of all our employees, regardless of their position, we deliver programs and initiatives focused on three primary areas:

- Raising employee awareness
- Encouraging employee engagement
- Developing relevant and meaningful learning opportunities

Raising employee awareness

In 2018, we released the Speak Up for Inclusion video to reignite the conversation on D&I with leaders, colleagues, clients and communities. We invited people from all walks of life, including RBC leaders, to have a frank and honest conversation about inclusion on camera. The resulting discussion highlighted that many misperceptions are still prevalent when navigating topics of gender, race, ability and more. But when we acknowledge and address our conscious and unconscious biases, we open the door to real conversations. In other words, before we can speak up for inclusion, we need to speak about inclusion. The video ignited a spark for that conversation both within RBC and outside the organization, as it continues to be used by several external companies in Canada, the US and internationally, as part of their own D&I training and learning programs, to facilitate conversations about advancing inclusion.

94% of employees and contractors<sup>1</sup> have completed the Anti-Racism training since its inception in May 2021

That Little Voice

Building on the success of our Speak Up for Inclusion video, we turned our focus to driving more inclusive behaviours by challenging internal dialogues we all have when faced with uncomfortable situations. We all have that little voice in our head telling us how to act. The new “That Little Voice” video, which was introduced in January 2020, encouraged all of us to pay attention to the voices we’re not listening to or the dialogue we are ignoring – with ourselves and those around us.

Combined views have now surpassed over 1 million,<sup>2</sup> and both videos continue to be relevant and important in light of the current global environment.

This year we published over 100 stories, blogs and videos internally and externally, covering topics such as racism, accessibility and women in leadership, featuring events such as Black History Month, International Women’s Day, Pride Month, National Indigenous History Month, Truth and Reconciliation Week, UN Day for Persons with Disabilities and National

Coming Out Day, and profiling Indigenous thought leaders and innovators, women in STEM, working mothers, Black artists, LGBTQ+ difference-makers and more. D&I stories were among the most viewed, liked and commented on in all of our employee communication and collaboration channels.

Strengthening inclusive-leadership capabilities

Encouraging employee engagement

Our ERGs bring together employees who share a common identity, characteristics and set of interests. They create a culture of inclusion that enhances employee engagement and further supports our organizational vision and values. A full list of our 2021 ERGs can be found in Appendix 4.

ERGs in 2021

iCare champions the needs of working caregivers such as experienced, new or expecting parents, or those caring for seniors, people who are sick or persons with disabilities. iCare aims to improve the work and family lives of caregivers by sharing experience and knowledge, bringing in outside expertise and providing a voice for caregivers.

MOSAIC and the Multicultural Employee Alliance (MEA) foster an inclusive culture for all employees by connecting visible minorities, non-visible minorities and newcomers across RBC.

PRIDE helps LGBTQ+ and allied employees thrive and LGBTQ+ communities prosper.

REACH is a community of employees that provides resources and peer support to its members while advocating for increased awareness to eliminate stigma and drive inclusion of employees with disabilities.

Royal Eagles raises awareness of Indigenous culture, provides a support system for RBC's Indigenous employees and acts as a liaison between the bank, its employees and the Indigenous community.

Women ERGs promote gender diversity and inclusion through advocacy and awareness, community involvement, ongoing education and networking opportunities. RBC has six women ERGs.

NextGen is a movement that builds engagement and attracts young professionals by empowering them to speak up and contribute to the organization's business priorities, fostering collaboration and supporting the communities we serve. NextGen was built on three guiding pillars: capabilities, connections, community.

RBC VETS – Veterans Engagement and Troops Support – helps engage employees with internal and external veterans and military service-related events and programs.

Developing relevant and meaningful learning opportunities

In addition to raising employee awareness through internal and external communications, storytelling and leader messages, RBC has a number of formal learning courses and tools for all employees:

- In 2020, RBC was the first Canadian financial institution to partner with First Nations University of Canada to implement 4 Seasons of Reconciliation, a transformative Indigenous cultural awareness program developed by Reconciliation Education and First Nations University of Canada. This online program has been a powerful resource in helping our employees understand Indigenous realities and histories in a new light, and to allow us to push forward in our commitment to honour the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's call to action #92. Since launching in May 2020, more than 28,000 employees have completed at least one module and over 11,500 employees have completed the full program. In addition, RBC is partnering with First Nations University of Canada and Reconciliation Education to offer the 4 Seasons of Reconciliation to all Canadians at no cost from October 20 to December 31, 2021 and June 1 to August 31, 2022.
- In 2021, RBC launched the mandatory Anti-Racism training program to its global workforce as one of its commitments to take action against systemic racism. Between its launch in May 2021 and October 31, 2021, 94% of employees and contractors completed the program.
- RBC piloted the Inclusion & Belonging webinar series on topics such as Discovering & Interrupting Bias, Recognizing and Responding to Microaggressions & Micro-Inequities, Enabling a Culture of Inclusion & Belonging, Unlocking Potential Through Inclusive Actions and Being an Ally for Change.
- Also trialed this year were a number of virtual classroom offerings focused on allyship and unlocking the potential of a diverse workforce, along with a new adaptive micro-learning experience on anti-bias awareness. The success of these pilots will result in plans to fully launch these offerings in 2022.

Listening to our employees

feel proud to be a part of RBC

We want our employees to feel valued, to experience a sense of belonging and to feel safe to speak up without fear of retaliation or reprisal. In confronting the structural and systemic racism and economic and social inequities that pervade our society, RBC is asking hard questions about race, inequality, inclusion and privilege. And we are committed to listening, learning and taking action. This first step – listening – has been and will continue to be vital to understanding the diverse and unique experiences of our employees.

We held listening circles for diverse employees across RBC during 2020 and 2021. These sessions enabled employees to share both their personal and professional experiences and their ideas to help us create a more inclusive workplace. We have also created “Uncomfortable Conversations” – a centralized hub on RBC’s intranet where all employees can access learning resources on anti-racism and find information about our ongoing D&I initiatives. In some regions, we held subsequent sessions, open to all employees, to provide an overview of race relations in that region and enable and promote allyship.

Always-on employee listening

To better understand the diverse needs, preferences and workstyles of our global businesses and colleagues, RBC continues to use a variety of listening initiatives such as pulse surveys, an annual engagement survey, D&I listening sessions, targeted interviews and focus groups.

In April 2021, we launched the new Employee Engagement Survey (EES), a major milestone on our journey to reimagine how we listen and bring feedback to life across RBC. The survey was designed to create a better survey experience for employees, including fewer questions with more open-ended options to gain a better understanding of sentiment. At the same time, we improved the dashboard to provide people managers with greater insight into their teams’ results, with access to real-time data and AI assisted insights.

Overall, employees remain highly engaged and feel proud to be a part of RBC. Most notably, the EES showed:

- 94%<sup>1</sup> feel they contribute to the overall success of RBC
- 91%<sup>1</sup> feel proud to be part of RBC
- 90%<sup>1</sup> are willing to go above and beyond

Despite the challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic, employees continued to feel well supported by RBC.

<sup>1</sup> Data collected using RBC’s Employee Engagement Survey (EES) that was conducted between April 21 and May 5, 2021; participation rate was 76%. Scores reflect the sum of the “Strongly Agree” and “Agree” responses for this question, divided by the total number of responses.

Leading with empathy and creating safe spaces

There's no substitute for compassionate leaders who listen, support and encourage their colleagues, especially in uncertain times. The pandemic has shone a spotlight on the importance of virtual inclusion, and we've equipped managers and leaders with resources and tactics to help our workforce adapt to a new way of living and working. We hosted a number of sessions to build colleagues' capabilities during challenging times, including the Executive Speaker Series on Human-Centric Leadership and a webinar series aimed at helping leaders adapt the way they communicate and coach in our virtual workplace. Other offerings included the "Managing Mental Health at Work" webinar training for people managers, round-table sessions with employees to learn about their mental health journeys, guided meditation sessions for the enterprise and the "Parenting During a Pandemic" session for parents on youth mental health.

Employee resources and programs for supporting mental health and resilience

- An increased psychological services benefit of $ 5,000/year for Canadian employees and family members
- Huddle guides and learning pathways for speaking openly about mental health
- Wellness campaigns to help build healthy habits and routines
- A meditation app subscription for all employees
- An extra day off for employees in 2021 to rest and recharge

Encouraging psychological safety

Employees in a psychologically safe workplace feel more comfortable and confident to speak their mind and respectfully challenge something that doesn't seem right. Psychological safety is an ongoing focus at RBC, reinforced in our Values, Code of Conduct and Respectful Workplace Policy.

We recognize that speaking up about issues related to diversity and inclusion can be uncomfortable given their sensitivity. There are a number of channels employees can use to raise their concerns including to their manager or senior manager, Human Resources, Employee Relations, Compliance and through our global Conduct Hotline, which employees can use anonymously.

Balancing work and life

We understand that our employees may face a range of challenges in their work or home life – especially during the pandemic, when balancing the two has been exceptionally difficult for many. Our goal is to ensure we create an inclusive work environment that provides employees with the flexibility and support they need to adapt and thrive, today and into the future.

- Flexible work arrangements: While our employees have always had options available to balance their personal and professional needs, we continue to remind them about the various ways they can apply for flexible work arrangements such as reduced hours, modified work weeks and job sharing.
- New resources for the future of work: Acknowledging that an increase in hybrid work is on the horizon for some groups, we've built a centralized online hub called “Working Together” that houses relevant resources for managers and employees. Our aim is to help them work more effectively in a hybrid environment, balancing and navigating the combination of online and in-person work arrangements with resiliency and empathy.
- Childcare support: Working parents have faced tremendous pressures due to the pandemic. RBC’s Employee Care Program is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to help our employees access support, including emergency backup childcare and trained counsellors. We offered “Support for Kids (and their grown-ups)” virtual programming, which included summer coding camps and on-demand story time. RBCers also took the initiative to create the Kids@home Marketplace with content and programs to share crafts, games and learning opportunities. As of 2020, new parents in Canada can take up to 78 weeks off to care for their newborn or newly adopted child(ren).
- Employees and managers in the UK, Canada and the US have access to a centralized site that hosts advice series, family leave planning tools with automated reminders, pre-family-leave development and return-to-work transition plans, curated learning content, mentorship toolkits, and more.

US Wealth Management provides policies and benefits that create better work-life balance, including:

- A parental leave policy inclusive of all parent types (birth mothers and non-birth parents, men and women). In fiscal 2020, the total leave was increased from four weeks of maternity leave to eight weeks, and parental leave from two weeks to four weeks.

Leave for adoption also allows all parents to have equal bonding time with their child, including:

- Paid caregiver leave for up to four weeks and double the maximum leave of absence payout for financial advisors
- Childcare leave tools and resources so employees have easy access to the information they need to prepare for their leave and manage their finances during their time at home with their family

Supporting UK employees through moments that matter:

- Extended dependent care-day offerings from 6 to 10 days
- Provided a bereavement policy with up to 20 days paid leave
- Increased co-parenting leave from two to six weeks
- Launched the Peppy app, which provides support and resources for women and partners seeking support on women’s health

For more information on RBC’s health and wellness policies and programs, please see the Value for Employees backgrounder.

Driving accountability

Redefining inclusive leadership

As part of our Action Plan Against Systemic Racism, we have:

- Enhanced our existing company-wide Unconscious Bias training, and made Anti-Racism training mandatory for all employees and contractors
- Increased our staffing goals for BIPOC executives from 20% to 30%, with a focus on strengthening Black and Indigenous representation in our leadership pipeline
- Doubled our investment in Ignite, a leadership program focused on driving the development of BIPOC talent, to complement other experience-based development opportunities
- Included diversity and inclusion objectives in the performance management goals of all people leaders
- Expanded our annual diversity reporting in 2021 to drive even more transparency around our BIPOC efforts, including enhancing our pay equity reporting to encompass racial equity in pay.

Accountability is critical to creating meaningful change, and to foster an inclusive culture, leaders must be accountable for role modelling inclusive behaviours. As such, diversity metrics are embedded in leadership goals across the company, and as part of RBC's Action Plan Against Systemic Racism, we include diversity and inclusion objectives in the performance management goals of all people leaders.

RBC's annual performance enablement process assesses employee effectiveness using the RBC Leadership Model, which considers whether employees demonstrate leadership behaviours such as "Building trust by being inclusive, candid and sincere" and "Drawing out and valuing diverse views".

Throughout 2021, we made a number of improvements to our performance management systems:

- Improved our diversity data and reporting tools to help HR leaders actively manage progress against goals, goal setting and building more diverse teams.
- Enhanced our self-reported diversity data collection efforts to better communicate the value of self-identification and bringing your whole self to work. This initiative has led to more accurate and complete reporting on the diversity of our workforce in select regions – 98.8% of Canadian employees and 99.7% of US employees completed our Workforce Census within one year of being hired.
- Established baseline Inclusive Experiences composite measures in our annual Employee Engagement Survey to actively manage employee sentiment across three pillars of inclusion: Psychological Safety, Belonging and Respect/Trust. It is based on extensive research on the drivers of inclusion and is a composite of eight questions in our annual Employee Engagement Survey. This baseline composite will serve as a foundation for the continuous improvement of our inclusive culture, and we expect our business leaders and people managers with greater than five direct reports to actively manage the inclusive experiences of their employees.

Enabling economic inclusion

Our priorities:

Influencing equitable access to financial products and services

Supporting products, programs and initiatives that create positive economic and social impact

Leveraging our purchasing power to influence supplier and client diversity efforts

Alignment with the SDGs

Target 1.4

Target 8.3
Target 8.6
Target 8.7
Target 8.10

Target 10.2

For additional information, see Appendix 3.

“Diversity and inclusion is much more than a foundational talent strategy at RBC. In order to live our purpose of helping clients thrive and communities prosper, it’s critical that our efforts to advance diversity and strengthen inclusion emanate through our operations, our products, and our services so that we are truly driving inclusive economic growth.”

– Greg Grice, EVP, Business Financial Services

Our commitment to D&I extends beyond our workforce to include the development, provision and procurement of our products and services and our partnerships with community organizations. Our practices, thought leadership and innovation strategies actively drive change among our peers and in our communities.

Influencing equitable access to financial products and services

Access to financial products and services is critical to any economy's efficiency and growth. Easy access is also fundamental to achieving individual well-being and community-wide equality. Through the inclusive development and delivery of products and services, we can better meet the diverse needs and circumstances of our clients.

Our 2021 initiatives that supported this objective include:

- Financial Access Project: In 2021 RBC launched the Survivor Inclusion Initiative in Canada to provide basic banking services to survivors of human trafficking. Partnering with the Salvation Army Illuminate, a front-line survivor service provider, the program aims to reconnect survivors to the financial system through financial literacy programming, fundamental banking education and access to free, unlimited chequing and savings accounts for 12 months. With an ultimate goal of enabling a survivor's economic independence, the program will offer financial support and resources to help them manage their finances with confidence.
- $100 million over five years in small business loans to Black entrepreneurs: In March 2021, RBC launched the Black Entrepreneur Startup Program \(BESP\), a funding collaboration with Futurpreneur Canada designed to address critical barriers emerging, young Black entrepreneurs face when starting, growing and managing their businesses. In June 2021, RBC also invested $1 million in Black Innovation Capital (BIC), a $10 million fund that supports the growth of pre-seed and seed-stage Canadian technology businesses led by Black entrepreneurs. The fund is anchored by BDC Capital, and is a collaborative initiative with the startup incubator Digital Media Zone (DMZ) and the Black Innovation Program (BIP). In October 2021, RBC launched the Black Entrepreneur Business Loan (BEBL), a new financing solution that provides eligible Black entrepreneurs in Canada with loans of up to $250,000.

For more information on RBC's annual financial inclusion activities in Canada, please see the 2021 Public Accountability Statement.

Influencing equitable access to financial products and services

Indigenous financial services in Canada

RBC offers inclusive financial services to Indigenous clients through integrated banking, trust and investment services. For Indigenous personal banking clients, we have a network of 11 full-service branches and six agencies located on reserves and in Inuit communities. For Indigenous clients living in remote communities and unable to visit an RBC location, we offer a remote banking service. In addition, we have a home financing program designed to assist First Nation clients in purchasing or building a home on a reserve, and a leasehold mortgage program for financing homes on leased First Nation lands.

For Indigenous businesses, governments and non-profits, we have a specialized banking team located in all regions of Canada, including three on-reserve commercial banking centres. We offer solutions specific to financing land claims, infrastructure and economic development projects for Indigenous communities. We also have wealth management teams who work exclusively with Indigenous governments to provide trust and investment solutions associated with preserving and managing financial assets acquired through claims settlements, impact benefit agreements and revenue sharing arrangements.

Supporting products, programs and initiatives that create positive economic and social impact

We recognize the influence RBC has on both local communities and the global stage – and with this influence comes the opportunity to help address key societal challenges such as social justice, financial literacy and access to essentials such as financial support, employment and opportunities for prosperity. We acknowledge the strength of our organizational voice and regularly publish research, engage in dialogue with experts and partner with innovative organizations to present new ideas, technologies and solutions that can contribute to positive social impact.

Financial literacy for groups that are historically underrepresented

In addition to striving to provide comfortable and equitable access to financial services, we further acknowledge that many people may not have had the opportunity to develop their understanding of financial matters. To address this gap, we provide specialized financial literacy initiatives, support and tools to help all individuals gain the financial knowledge they need to navigate the banking system and successfully manage their money based on their unique needs. This year, we launched a new financial literacy program for Indigenous Peoples, created in response to calls from residential school survivors and First Nations youth, who recommended financial training to help them maximize the benefits of financial compensation.

For more information on our programs and initiatives, please see the About Value for Communities backgrounder and the 2021 Public Accountability Statement.

Developing products and services

As an organization dedicated to continuous innovation, we are constantly seeking new solutions that simplify our clients' lives and boost their opportunities for financial wellness. We embed our D&I values in every activity, recognizing that an inclusive approach addresses the needs of a broad range of individuals and businesses.

Supporting products, programs and initiatives that create positive economic and social impact

In 2021, we embedded our D&I values in our products in the following ways:

- RBC Global Asset Management (GAM): We updated our RBC GAM Proxy Voting Guidelines to state that we encourage companies to publicly disclose information on the diversity of their board of directors, executive and senior management teams, and wider workforce. For consistency, we encourage disclosure that aligns with companies' local jurisdictions, such as the EEO-1 Report in the US and the Canada Business Corporations Act in Canada. We are a signatory to the Canadian 30% Club Investor Group, which targets 30% representation of women on boards and at the executive management level of S&P/TSX Composite Index companies by 2022. As such, we increased our threshold requirement for the representation of women on boards of directors from 25% to 30% in all markets where our Guidelines apply.
- RBC Capital Markets: A market first, RBC Capital Markets served as Diversity & Inclusion Coordinator of two asset-backed securities (ABS) deals in 2021. Working together with partners on the deals, RBC advanced equal opportunity in the ABS market for diverse-owned firms, further reinforcing RBC's commitment to D&I across the broader capital markets.
- The Greenspring Diversity Fund (US Wealth Management): As part of a commitment to improving diversity in the financial services industry, our Alternative Product Group developed the Greenspring Diversity Fund to invest in 10-15 US-based venture capital funds where at least one-third of the key persons (as defined in the fund's limited partnership agreement) are members of groups that are historically underrepresented.
- Ampli: This platform, which provides cash back when consumers purchase goods and services from retailers, launched an initiative where Ampli matched the cash it issued to members in the form of donations to Indigenous organizations across Canada from purchases made at Indigenous businesses.
- Prepped: A platform that helps job-seekers refine their resume and interview skills. In fiscal 2021, Prepped provided 50 Premium licences to The Black Professionals in Tech Network to support their pipeline of candidates as they prepare for their job applications and interviews.
- Ownr: This platform helps small business owners register and incorporate their businesses, and also profiles BIPOC-owned small business owners and entrepreneurs. During Black History Month, Ownr featured stories to amplify the Black community and their businesses.

RBC Capital Markets is a founding partner of the Equality Fund

The Equality Fund is a unique public-private partnership seeking to build a new global funding mechanism and leverage more resources for gender equality around the world. In 2019, the fund received a $300 million seed contribution from the Government of Canada. RBC was a founding member of the Equality Fund Collective in June 2019 and has helped define their investment strategy. We have also customized a cross-asset investment solution to help them invest their proceeds. The main objective was to integrate a gender lens into our public markets' investment strategy while addressing both growth and income needs.

Charitable donations and partnerships

Through strategic partnerships, donations, sponsorship initiatives and employee volunteerism, we continue to support organizations, academic institutions and non-profit groups that are working to address diversity issues that are important to our organization and our stakeholders. Across our community investment portfolio, we proactively look for opportunities to support Indigenous Peoples, individuals with a low socioeconomic status, women, persons with disabilities, racialized communities, newcomers and members of the LGBTQ+ community.

We are one of Canada’s largest corporate funders of charitable organizations, contributing over $140 million globally in cash donations and community investments in 2021. This includes $70.5 million from the RBC Foundation®, a separate legal entity that reports financial information to the Canada Revenue Agency. As signatories to Imagine Canada’s Caring Company Program, we invest a minimum of 1% of our domestic net income before income taxes in support of charitable and non-profit endeavours in Canada. In 2021, 48% of our donations through the RBC Foundation in Canada supported diverse communities.<sup>1</sup> In July 2020, RBC announced actions to address the inequity and systemic bias that have disadvantaged BIPOC individuals and youth. As part of this commitment, under the “Investing for the Future” pillar, we will provide $50 million in focused funding through RBC Future Launch to create meaningful and transformative pathways to prosperity for 25,000 BIPOC youth by 2025. In 2021, we contributed nearly $17 million towards our goal.

Percentage of cash donations and community investments

In addition, donations made through the RBC Employee Giving Campaign were distributed to intermediaries such as large charitable organizations that reach underserved groups beyond our immediate outreach.

- <sup>1</sup> All gender-based metrics are for our global operations except where indicated. All BIPOC KPIs are for Canada and the US only. All metrics exclude summer interns, students and co-ops and are based on employee self-identification.
- <sup>2</sup> Metrics represent all RBC employees excluding hourly, inactive leave of absence, income protection, City National Bank and BlueBay Asset Management employees.
- <sup>3</sup> We include our employees of our Technology & Operations platform as well as our Quantitative & Technology Services team that sits within Capital Markets. Overall, we have approximately 10,000 individuals who support those groups across different teams, such as Enterprise Operations & Payments, Innovation & Technology, Tech Infrastructure, Retail Applications, Global Cyber Security, Enterprise & International Apps, Chief Data Office, CM Technology, and Digital Technology. This does not include our call centre or contact centre employees or our digital teams that sit within Personal & Commercial Banking, such as Digital Marketing & Sales, Digital Rewards, Digital Channels, Digital Planning & Integration, or Digital Delivery.
- <sup>4</sup> Revenue-producing roles are identifiable in our job hierarchy as "Job Family = Sales." In fiscal 2021, approximately 30,000 employees were considered to be in revenue-producing roles, which include approximately 230 job titles and approximately 25 job roles, including but not limited to, Relationship Managers, Branch/Centre Managers, Financial Services Representatives, Investment & Retirement Planners (IRPs), Sales Managers, Mortgage Specialists, Licensed Insurance Advisors, Personal Financial Services Representatives (PFSRs), General Managers, Sales Representatives (Wholesale), Insurance Agents, Investment Representatives, Business Advisors, Business Heads, Traders, Specialized Sales Managers and Sales Traders.
- <sup>5</sup> 2020 and 2019 were restated as a result of self-identification campaigns that were retroactively applied and refinement of our criteria for measurement.
- <sup>6</sup> Represents data from our businesses in Canada governed by the Employment Equity Act. Our fiscal 2021 executive representation goals were 50% for women and 30% for BIPOC.
- <sup>7</sup> Excludes summer interns, students and co-ops. Values for women and men represent data from our global operations. Values for BIPOC represent data from our businesses in Canada and the United States.
- <sup>8</sup> Defined as upward change in position level or HR class.
- <sup>9</sup> The percentage of employees who remained with RBC in each fiscal year. Represents salaried employees who are at work including those on maternity/parental leave.
- <sup>10</sup> Represents the percentage of men, women and BIPOC employees that departed during each fiscal year, out of the total departures that occurred.

Appendix 1 – Statement of Performance

<sup>4</sup> Introduced in fiscal 2021 the Inclusive Experiences Composite Score is our measure for understanding the experiences of our employees across three core pillars of inclusion: Psychological Safety, Respect/Trust and Sense of Belonging. It is based on extensive research of the drivers of inclusion and is a composite of eight questions within our annual Employee Engagement Survey. In 2021, the EES response rate was 76%. Percentage reflects the number of respondents who answered “Strongly Agree” or “Agree” to the indicated eight questions.

<sup>5</sup> Engagement is a measure of employee alignment, commitment and enablement as evidenced by employees’ responses to select questions in the Employee Opinion Survey (EOS), administered by Willis Towers Watson in fiscal year 2019. The 2020 EOS was deferred and replaced by a series of well-being surveys due to the rapid onset of the COVID-19 pandemic in March 2020. Per footnote 3, a new Employee Engagement Survey administered by Medallia was launched in fiscal year 2021, and thus scores from prior years are not directly comparable.

<sup>6</sup> Represents data for our business in Canada governed by the Employment Equity Act. To perform our analysis, we needed to exclude select populations to drive accuracy, including part-time employees, contingent workers, contract workers, individuals on long-term leaves of absence, individuals on unique multi-variant incentive plans that span multiple years and individuals going through phased-in retirement.

<sup>7</sup> Due to timing of deferred bonuses and equity awards, data for fiscal 2021 are not available at this time.

<sup>8</sup> The median remuneration (adjusted) of women compared to men’s remuneration adjusted for observable occupational characteristics, including platform, position level, age, geography, RBC tenure and/or people manager tenure. This includes the following forms of compensation: salary, bonus and equity (share value at grant date). It does not include commissions or commission-only employees. Excludes approximately 1,600 employees in the federally regulated RBC Capital Markets and RBC Investor & Treasury Services entities due to the use of incomparable position groups. Information presented is for fiscal 2020 and 2019, our last completed payroll years that captured bonuses paid and equity granted after fiscal year-end.

<sup>9</sup> As determined through answers to our Workforce Census, which may use unique demographic questions and fields aligned with localized regulatory requirements.

<sup>10</sup> The median remuneration (adjusted) of individuals who self-identify as Black, Indigenous or Persons of Colour (BIPOC) compared to those who self-identify as White, adjusted for observable occupational characteristics, including platform, position level, age, geography, RBC tenure and/or people manager tenure. This includes the following forms of compensation: salary, bonus and equity (share value at grant date). It does not include commissions or commission-only employees. Excludes approximately 1,600 employees in the federally regulated RBC Capital Markets and RBC Investor & Treasury Services entities due to the use of incomparable position groups. Information presented is for fiscal years 2020 and 2019, our last completed payroll years that captured bonuses paid and equity granted after fiscal year-end.

Appendix 6 – UK gender pay reporting

The gender pay gap is the difference between the average pay for men and the average pay for women as a proportion of the average men’s pay. Gender pay reporting refers to the legal requirement for all UK employers with 250 or more employees to publish select data. Below we illustrate the mean and median gender pay gaps and the bonus gender pay gap of all consolidated UK legal entities, unadjusted for occupational and regional differences.<sup>1</sup> Our legal entities in the UK, subject to the legal requirement, are RBC Investor Services Trust (RBC IS), RBC London Branch (RBC LB) and RBC Europe Ltd. (RBC Europe). For information specific to our legal entities, see <https://www.rbc.com/diversity-inclusion/reports.html>.

What do the results show?

Since 2017, the mean gender pay gap for RBC has decreased by 5% and the percentage of women in our top pay quartile has increased by 4% across the UK.

The pay gaps of 37% (mean) and 34% (median) and bonus pay gap of 59% (mean and median) are a direct symptom of having more men than women in senior level roles. 93% of women and 94% of men received a bonus in 2021.

Unlike gender equity in pay, as disclosed for our employees governed by the Employment Equity Act in Canada on pages 16 and 49, the UK Gender Pay Gap calculation measures the difference in hourly pay and bonuses for all men and all women in an organization regardless of their role and seniority.

As a signatory to the UK’s Women in Finance Charter (WIFC), a pledge for gender balance across financial services established by Her Majesty’s Treasury, RBC has committed to increasing the representation of women at senior levels (defined by RBC as director-level or higher) in the UK. RBC has made steady progress towards this goal and publishes its results annually on the company website.

Overall, women representation in senior management roles has increased from 19% in 2017 to 22% in 2021. We have committed to increasing it by 1% each year to reach 25% by 2025. Our goal is to accelerate our progress towards full inclusion to attract, retain and enable the best talent and to increase leadership diversity.

For more information on the actions we’re taking in the UK to drive equitable employment opportunities, see pages 15, 26, 39, 40, 45 and 53.

Changes in gender pay across consolidated entities: 2017–2021

	Consolidated Entities
	Mean					Median
	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	5 Year Diff	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	5 Year Diff

Bonus Gender Pay Gap	64%	67%	63%	60%	59%	(5%)	69%	69%	67%	61%	59%	(10%)

Support for ethnic talent

In April 2021 RBC signed the Race at Work Charter. This is one of the latest steps on our journey to support ethnically diverse talent at RBC in the UK.

<sup>1</sup> We did not adjust for known variables that impact pay (e.g. market factors like city/region, platform/business segment, roles/responsibilities, position level, etc.).
<sup>2</sup> This depicts the gender mix of employees within each pay quartile.
